

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

Based on the findings and analysis data, the research can be concluded that there were 72 language functions found in the Persuasion movie. There are Referential functions, Metalinguistics functions, Expressive functions, Phatic functions, Directive functions, and Poetic functions. Referential functions are mostly used, while Poetic functions are rarely used by the main character in the movie. It is proven in the movie by how the main character 'Anne Elliot' uses her utterances when she talks with other characters even when she talks alone (monolog) give information to show her thoughts and opinions. Meanwhile, she rarely uses poetic words in her utterances.

Furthermore, the findings data also show how the social factors and social dimensions give affect the speaker to create her language function in the movie. 1) Participant factors: social distant scale, there are distance dimension between the speaker and the listener which means they have distant relationship; status scale by equal scale of participants, it is superior with superior because all the characters have similar status scales, they have in the same occupational position or they are nobles. 2) Setting factor: informal situation, the main character mostly happens in Anne's house, forest, road street, concert, and hall which shows an informal dimension within low formality from these places. 3) Topic and Function factors: referential dimension, it means the main character mostly shares information, opinions, and expresses her thoughts to other characters or in her monolog dialogue.

5.2 Suggestion

Based on the conclusion above, the researcher would like to provide some suggestions for the following researchers who might be interested in taking Language Functions as the research study topic. The researcher suggests that the next researcher use different experts and theories that discuss language function, social factors, and social dimensions to show more theories from various experts who also discussed those topics. Furthermore, since this research took a movie as the object of the research study objects, the researcher also suggests that the next researcher use different research objects such as poems, songs, news, social media, novels, or short stories to show more differences and able to make the research gap from the previous research studies.
