

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

The conclusion is that language is very important in everyday life, language is also a communication tool in social life to communicate between humans we use language, such as continuous speech acts with the language we use every day, aimed at communicating between humans. For example, speech acts have speech functions such as promising, asking for help, requesting, ordering, agreeing, disagreeing etc. An expression will appear on a person's face when the person is angry or happy. It can be concluded that it is important to see and know people's expressions and often start conversations to improve communication. Every speaker in communication tries to communicate his feelings. Expressing feelings or emotions to listeners is a function of expressive speech acts

From the 50 data that researchers have found, it can be concluded that we can understand someone's emotional situation by what they say and their expressions when they speak. In his research, there are 7 meanings of expressive action consisting of: Expressive of thanking, joy, liking, difficulty, praising, pleasure, and congratulating. The meaning of expressive act is contained in research entitled "Analysis of Expressive Act at Grammy Award 2023". The artists who produced expressive acts at the Grammy Award include: Adele, Lizzo, Harry Style, Taylor Swift, Bonnierait, Robert Glasper, Brandi Carlile, and Beyoncé. Of the several artists who won the 2023 Grammy Award, in my opinion, the most meaningful was Lizzo because she conveyed the process of her struggle as a black singer, which of course was full of bullying because of her physical appearance, but she was able to show everyone that, even though she was not as beautiful as the singers, others but she is able to work in the world of music

In my opinion, in this research there is no monotonous delivery because all the artists are happy with the achievements they were able to achieve
