THE SCIENTIFIC REASON, WHY I TOOK THIS TITLE?

Wants this research to be able to explain in detail and in detail the role of UN Women in dealing with cases of discrimination that befell women and girls in India as non-state actors, namely international organizations.

wants this research to explain clearly that in India there are still cases of discrimination against women and girls and there is still gender inequality in India.

From the results of this study it is hoped that it can add to the author's knowledge about the reality of international relations and international phenomena that occur, especially the role of international organizations in the study of International Relations, add information about the condition of Indian women and UN women's efforts to help achieve gender equality in India.

BACKGROUND INTRODUCTION

The percentage of discrimination against women in India is high and India is one country that is not safe for women. The issue of concern for women in India has befallen women for a long time and has become an international issue.

Only men are considered beings with wisdom. Women are deemed unwise. Therefore, people believe that women should be supervised by men. This is still frequently encountered in India. It's as if women aren't allowed to establish their own identities; they are always seen as wives or daughters of men, which can be said to strip away their autonomy.

RESEARCH QUESTION & METHOD

This Research is trying to answer

"What is the role of UN Women in addressing cases of discrimination against women and girls in India from 2018 to 2020?"

My Method in this research is Qualitative Method through in-depth literature review, document analysis, The data collection technique used is appropriate, because the data that the writer will later look for is in the form of writings, books, journals, etc.

This method is considered suitable, because the author will examine how the role of international organizations in cases of discrimination that befell women and children in India, by using case studies of discrimination in India is therefore considered very relevant to the case study method. Likewise, the writer feels that the qualitative method is very suitable for this research because later the writer will take several supporting sources such as documents, articles, journals, books which are descriptive.

THEORY & CONCEPT

Several theory i have brought, consisting of 1 theory & 1 concept

International Organization

International Organization, which is a forum for its members who join to make a policy or become a solution to cases that are befalling member countries that have become an international issue

Human Right

Human rights are rights that every human being has from birth, of course this right is the right of freedom in a person to make his choice. Human Rights can be interpreted as all human beings have the right not to receive discrimination from anyone, including government agencies

The theory will be operationalized in the study.

These two theories and concepts are very relevant and can be a tool for the author's analysis to examine the role of UN Women from international organizational theory and also from the point of view of victims, namely Indian women using the concept of Human Rights who accept discriminatory behavior.

The Role of Un Women in Influencing Indian Government Policies Regarding Cases of Violence Against Women in 2011-2015

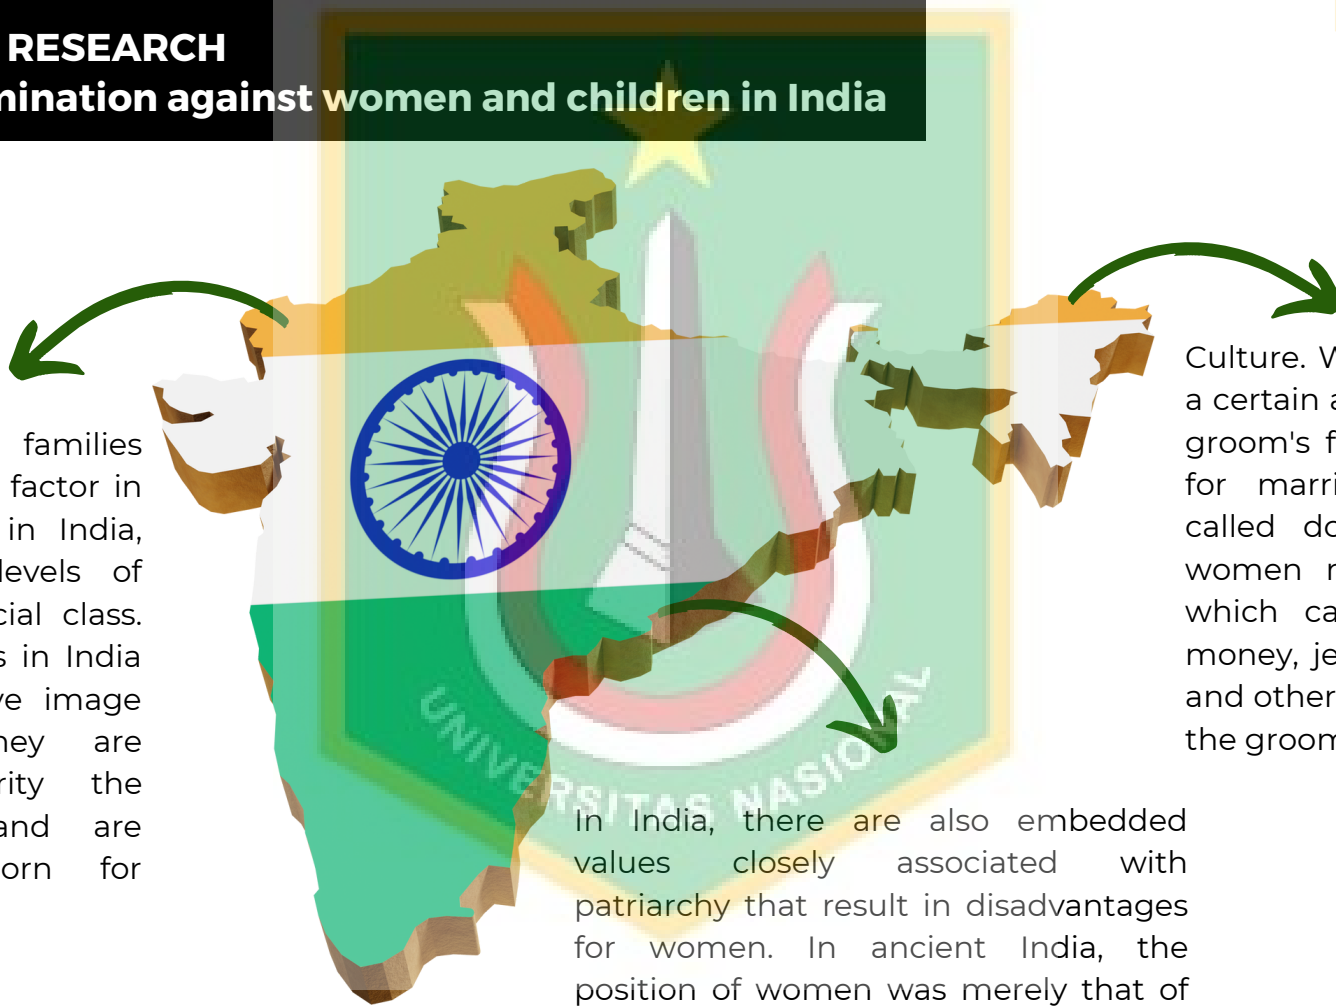

ASPECTS, DIMENSIONS, PARAMETERS

aspects	Dimensions	Parameters
Discrimination	Discrimination against sex as the main problem Cases of violence against women	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• History of discrimination against women• Discrimination against women in India• Cases of violence and sexual harassment against women• Cases of violence and sexual harassment against women in India
The role of UN Women towards women in India	UN Women's efforts to deal with cases of discrimination against women in India as a mediator for the CEDAW convention which focuses primarily on reducing violence and discrimination against women	UN Women helping to resolve violence against women is its top priority, with efforts through the Leadership and Political Participant program, Ending Violence Against Women.

THE RESULT OF THIS RESEARCH

The factors of discrimination against women and children in India

The caste system in families becomes a determining factor in various aspects of life in India, such as occupation, levels of spiritual purity, and social class. The lowest caste groups in India often receive a negative image from society as they are considered to impurity the sanctity of others and are perceived to be born for exploitation

In India, there are also embedded values closely associated with patriarchy that result in disadvantages for women. In ancient India, the position of women was merely that of accessories to men

Culture. Women also have to pay a certain amount of money to the groom's family as a requirement for marriage. This tradition is called dowry. In this tradition, women must provide a dowry, which can be in the form of money, jewelry, household items, and other things as demanded by the groom's family.

THE RESULT OF THIS RESEARCH

The impact of a culture that breeds discrimination against women and children in India
