SIDANG SKRIPSI
GENAP 2022/2023

Background.

The background of human trafficking in Indonesia can be derived from the state of the Indonesian economy as part of a developing country. The majority of the population is poorly educated and thus has limited forms of employment that can prevent them from receiving wages or assets to earn a better living. On land the shrinking agricultural land area quantitatively reduces the employment of farmers, on the water side due to fierce competition fishermen are gradually abandoned because the yield and process are not balanced with large fishing vessels. While this generates a desire for a better life in companies at home and abroad, it falls under the offense of human trafficking

My Research Question

- FORMULATION OF THE PROBLEMS

Based on the background above. The author wants to know what are the steps and efforts of the governments of Indonesia and Malaysia in handling human trafficking cases in 2018-2021? and how does Indonesia and Malaysia cooperate in trying to handle human trafficking cases 2018-2021?

I HAVE PREVIOUS STUDIES CONTAINING OF

- RESEARCH CONDUCTED BY ANI KHOIRUNNISA, MAYASARI BASRI (2018)

The equation in this research and previous research is that they both discuss how the Indonesian and Malaysian governments are trying to cooperate in handling human trafficking cases and conduct research with quantitative methods.

- RESEARCH CONDUCTED BY ADITYA RIZKY

The equation in this research and previous research is that they both discuss how the Indonesian and Malaysian governments are trying to cooperate in handling human trafficking cases and conduct research with quantitative methods.

I have several theory consisting of

- TRANSNATIONAL ORGANIZED CRIME
One of the classifications of transnational crimes in Indonesia is human trafficking, because in addition to economic factors and low education, unemployment is also one of the causes of human trafficking crime. Lack of jobs forces the unemployed to migrate to other places that are considered possible.
- INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION THEORY
The focus of this cooperation is the realization of self-interest, where the interests of both parties can be realized through cooperation rather than by managing their own business.
- SECURITIZATION THEORY
In securitization, security concerns are constructed. Securitization focuses on public safety, especially the safety of groups of people living in a sovereign state.

MY METHOD IN THIS RESEARCH :

- Type of Data Collection

This research uses a qualitative method with descriptive analysis. This method was chosen because qualitative researchers need to examine the data obtained during the research and then collect the data in writing.

- Data Collection and Data Analysis Techniques

Data collection techniques are actions taken by researchers in the file structure. The data collection technique used by researchers is desk research or library research (independent research). Data collection is one of the collection processes that contribute to the quality of a research paper. Literary research is research that seeks information from textbooks, newsletters, documents, newspapers, scientific journals, reports from government and non-government organizations, websites, and the Internet. In this study, data collection from websites was used related to the efforts of the Indonesian and Malaysian governments in handling cases. Human trafficking as a transnational crime.

ASDIPAR :

discussion

- Since 2005, the International Organization for Migration (IOM) has continued to support the Government of Indonesia's efforts to prevent and address trafficking in persons (TPPO) in Indonesia through a "3P" approach (Prevention, Protection, and Prosecution). IOM Indonesia operates at the national and sub-national levels, and works closely with government and non-government organizations.

1. Preventive

IOM has also developed a range of Information, education and awareness (IEC) materials, including cartoons, a documentary titled "Never Again", and an informative booklet. Information on safe migration, including travel guides for destination countries. IOM Indonesia also works with IOM to develop digital safe migration campaigns and raise public awareness to end exploitation and TPPO.

2. Protection

Assistance will be provided through a referral mechanism involving more than 80 government and non-government partners. IOM Indonesia organizes trainings and provides technical assistance to strengthen the role of the TPPO Prevention and Response Task Force, including at the sub-national level, in providing adequate assistance to victims of TPPO. Since 2005, IOM Indonesia has identified and supported more than 9,000 victims of TPPO.

3. Prosecution

The International Organization for Migration's (IOM) approach to international labor migration is to create synergies between labor migration and development and promote legal channels of labor migration as an alternative to illegal migration. In addition, IOM works to facilitate the development of policies and programs that benefit migrants and communities by providing effective protection and support for migrant workers and their families.

Conclusion :

- Human trafficking, commonly known as transnational crime, is extremely difficult to eradicate and prevent. This crime, also known as human trafficking, is contemporary slavery and a violation of human rights. This crime is increasing very rapidly at the national and international levels, so people and governments must empathize with the issue of eradicating human trafficking. To combat this crime, the Government of Indonesia has made various efforts to tackle human trafficking through:

- 1. The signing of the MOU in the form of cooperation between Indonesia and Malaysia in the establishment of the Joint Police Cooperation Committee (JPCC), between the Indonesian National Police (POLRI) and the Royal Malaysian Police (PDRM) as law enforcers of each country who agree to carry out police cooperation activities as members of the Joint Police Cooperation Committee (JPCC) emphasizes that the purpose of this cooperation is to combat all forms of transnational crimes, one of which is human trafficking.

- 2. Indonesia's cooperation with IOM (International Organization for Migration) IOM is also involved in dealing with all trafficking in persons (TPO) crimes, both in West Kalimantan and East Kalimantan borders. IOM representatives have coordinated with relevant agencies to protect the borders of the Republic of Indonesia. In addition to conducting awareness actions with all local communities to participate in the prevention of human trafficking in Indonesia's border areas.

- 3. The stipulation of Indonesian legislation as referred to in Law No. 21/2007 paragraph 1. on the Elimination of the Crime of Trafficking in Persons, is based on respect for human beings as creatures of God Almighty whose human rights are in accordance with their dignity, therefore all violations against them must be eliminated. . PDD prevention and control efforts are based on noble values, national and international commitments to early prevention efforts, prosecution of perpetrators, protection of victims, and increased cooperation. Efforts to prevent and control human trafficking are a shared responsibility between the government, local governments, communities and families.
